

IN-SITU INTERFEROMETER ARRANGEMENT

ABSTRACT

5 An in-situ interferometer includes an image modifying optic that produced light ray bundles. The light ray bundles are projected onto a reticle with a plurality of measurement fiducial encoded onto a face of the reticle. The measurement fiducial are exposed onto a sensing plane and their locations measured. Aberrations in the projection system are determined from the measurements of the exposed reticles.

10